Indxx Launches the Indxx Green REITs Index

New York – February 03, 2021 - Indxx is pleased to announce the launch of the Indxx Green REITs Index (the “Index”), which tracks the performance of companies that own, construct, sell or purchase green buildings.

Green buildings are designed and constructed to be environmentally responsible, sustainable and resource-efficient throughout their life cycle.

Rahul Sen Sharma, Managing Partner at Indxx said, “Green REITs are an excellent tool for investors to promote sustainability in real estate. It has also been observed that green certification leads to higher occupancy rates, and increased tenant satisfaction that translates into better returns for investors. Countries across the world are passing regulations to limit carbon emissions, the Green REITs industry will seek immense benefits from these initiatives. We are very happy on expanding our sustainable index series with the introduction of the Indxx Green REITs Index that will aid responsible investing in REITs.” Added Vaibhav Agarwal, Chief Revenue Officer at Indxx, “The construction and operation of real estate has a significant impact on the environment. By focusing on the value of energy and operational efficiency, green buildings considerably reduce their operating expenses. Thus, they not only benefit the environment but also provide better returns. Our Index helps investors invest in leading REITs that are committed to sustainability. Our research team has been able to build an index that allows exposure to REITs with green buildings constituting more than 50% of their portfolio. “

As of February 03, 2021, the index has 71 constituents. It has a backtested date of September 30, 2016 and a live calculation date of December 10, 2020. Additional information can be found here.
